

This would mean the end to uninterrupted family time and meals. If a person needs these services they have advertising on TV and phone books.